HI, I'M IGGI · JAMES'S TRIP-BUILDING BUDDY

Every island in here has a page number. Circle the ones that make you grin, then find Iggi's Compass on the Galápagos page at jameswildco.com. Tell me your month and your crew; I'll sketch the voyage, James takes it from there. Never lost. Only scenic.

Dear Jane,

I first came here in 1991, and I still remember the feeling: I was Darwin. A small airport, a handful of boats in the whole archipelago, no guide at my elbow, and almost no one else going. You stepped off the panga and the islands simply carried on, sea lions asleep on the landing, boobies nesting on the path, a hawk close enough to touch, none of them the least bit bothered by us.

I've kept going back ever since, and the reason hasn't changed. The animals still don't care that we're there. The rock is still being made in the west and worn down in the east, so every island is a different chapter. And every time I go, I see something I walked straight past the time before.

Today far more people come, so how you go matters. Small ships, the right season, and a naturalist who has been doing this for decades. That's what this guide is for. Start with the rock, read the islands oldest to youngest, and the wildlife makes sense.

J. Wild CHIEF EXPEDITION OFFICER · FIRST LANDED 1991

	1991, WHEN I FIRST CAME	TODAY
VISITORS	Fewer than 50,000 a year (early 1990s)	About 330,000 a year (2023)
THE WAY IN	A small airport and a handful of boats	Daily flights, busy harbour towns and a long list of licensed ships
THE ANIMALS	Unafraid	Still unafraid. That's the miracle.

HOW TO READ THE MARKS

● I KNOW A PLACE	James has stayed or sailed there himself.
● I'VE WALKED IT	Inspected in person, every path and room.
● I KEEP GOING BACK	A founder favourite.
● I KNOW THE HOST	A personal introduction comes with the booking.
● I KNOW WHO KNOWS	Vetted through a partner we trust.
● I'LL KNOW SOON	On James's list, honestly marked.

A conveyor belt you can stand on

Why visit the Galápagos: wildlife without fear, geology you can read island by island, and a national park that still says no.

OLDER · EAST · ROUGHLY 3–4 MILLION YEARS ▶

Wildlife without fear

Animals here evolved without hunters on land, and they still behave like it. You'll step around sea lions, not stalk them.

Geology you can read

Old islands in the east are worn and green; young ones in the west are black lava and still active. Sail one to the other and you watch the place being made.

A park that says no

The National Park sets every landing and time. Fewer people at each site, a naturalist with every group, and rules that keep it this way.

DECEMBER – MAY

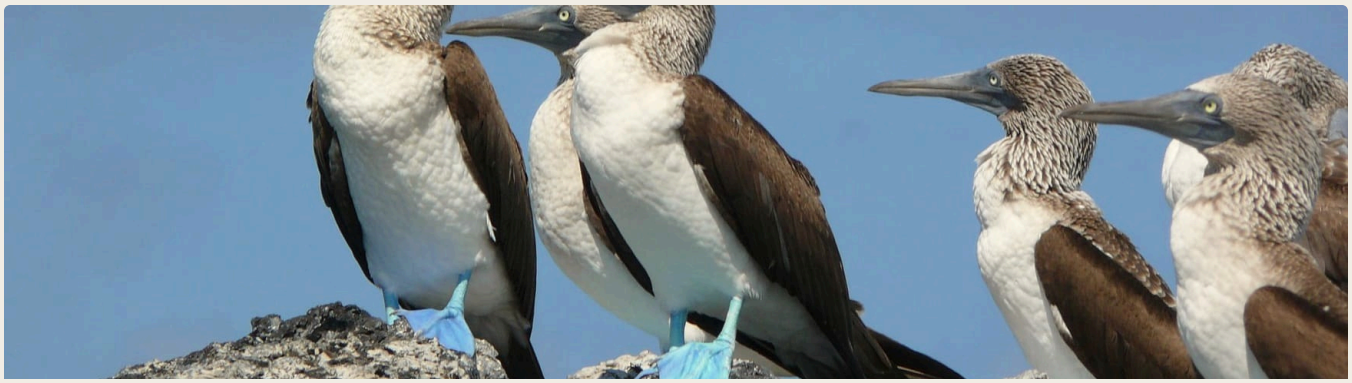

The warm season

Warmer water, calmer seas, green highlands and short showers. The snorkeler's choice.

JUNE – NOVEMBER

The garúa season

The Humboldt Current brings cool water, misty mornings and the richest marine life. Rougher crossings, livelier wildlife.

RULES OF THE ROAD

STAY & PREPARE

01 The smaller the boat, the bigger the sea. First ashore, last back.

02 Read a place in the order it was written. Old islands first.

03 Arrive the day before the day before. Mainland flights run late; ships don't wait.

04 Contrast beats coverage. Land, then sea. You'll feel the change.

WORDS WE'VE STRUCK OUT

STAY & PREPARE

~~luxury cruise~~	It's a yacht with sixteen guests and a naturalist who knows every sea lion by its scars.
~~hidden gem~~	Nothing here is hidden. It's protected. Different thing.
~~once in a lifetime~~	Most of our guests come back. Plan for twice.

What to know, and what not to expect

Getting to the Galápagos, park fees, fitness, packing and straight answers.

Getting there

Fly to Guayaquil or Quito, then on to Baltra or San Cristóbal. Plan a night on the mainland first.

Fees at the door

Galápagos National Park entrance fee [US$200 adult, confirm] and Transit Control Card [US$20, confirm].

Fitness

Wet landings from pangas, uneven lava, short hikes in the sun. Tell us about knees and backs; we'll match the route.

Pack

Reef-safe sunscreen, a brimmed hat with a strap, water shoes, a light layer for garúa mornings, a dry bag, and a long lens if you have one.

What not to expect

~~Casino~~	The only gamble is whether the penguins show up.
~~Formal nights~~	Dress code: dry by dinner.
~~Your own landing times~~	The Park sets the clock. Everyone keeps it.
~~Hand-feeding~~	Two metres from wildlife. The animals didn't get the memo.
~~Strong Wi-Fi~~	Limited at sea. Post the photos at home.

Straight answers

Sea or land first time? Sea reaches more; land sleeps better. The Contrast does both.

Solo? Welcome on both. Ask about the single supplement.

Children? Strong fit. Age guidance [confirm per program].

Words you'll hear on board

Panga
The small inflatable boat that ferries you from ship to shore. Every landing starts with one.

Wet landing
You step off the panga into knee-deep water on a beach. Sandals, not socks.

Dry landing
You step from the panga onto rock or a jetty. Watch the swell, take the naturalist's hand.

Garúa
The cool, misty season (about June to November), when the Humboldt Current brings fog and rich seas.

Humboldt Current
Cold water flowing up from Antarctica. It feeds the penguins, fur seals and the best snorkelling.

Endemic
Found nowhere else on earth. In the Galápagos that covers most of the reptiles you will meet.

Hotspot
The plume of magma under the western islands that keeps building new land.

Pāhoehoe
Smooth, ropey lava, as on Santiago's Sullivan Bay. Beautiful, and hard on soft shoes.

Naturalist
Your Park-licensed guide. Every group ashore has one, by law.

Jane, that's the Galápagos as I've come to know it since 1991. Circle what moves you, cross out what doesn't, and send it back to me. I'll read every mark and call you with a plan. The islands have waited a few million years. They can wait for you to get it right.
