A field guide to Indonesia's phinisi yacht voyages, reefs and island villas

PREPARED FOR

Jane Traveler

COVER · DUNIA BARU AT ANCHOR · PHOTO DUNIA BARU

A LETTER BEFORE YOU GO

Dear Jane,

In November 2024 I sailed Raja Ampat aboard Aliikai with my son. We dropped in off Kri on the first morning and the reef simply didn't end: fusiliers in rivers, a turtle that couldn't have cared less about us, coral in colours I don't have names for. I've been diving for forty-four years, and I came up laughing.

Indonesia is too big to see, so don't try. Seventeen thousand islands is not an itinerary. Pick a sea, pick the right boat, and give it time. The right boat is a phinisi: a wooden schooner built by hand on the beaches of South Sulawesi, the way they have been built for generations, now with a dive deck and a chef.

Then come ashore. Bali is where most of these voyages begin or end, and it deserves more than a night by the airport: rice terraces and temple ceremonies around Ubud, a cliff over the Indian Ocean on the Bukit. Land, then sea. You should feel the change.

This guide is page one of your Folio. Mark it up. Circle what makes you grin. Cross out what doesn't. When we talk, I'll already know which kind of traveler you are.

Inside the shoal, Raja Ampat

Reefs you can't exaggerate

Raja Ampat sits where the Pacific and Indian oceans meet, at the heart of the Coral Triangle. Surveys here have counted almost 600 species of reef-building coral and more than 1,200 kinds of fish. You don't need to dive to see it; the snorkelling starts at the ladder.

Boats with a bloodline

The phinisi is the two-masted schooner of South Sulawesi, still built by hand on the beaches of Tana Beru and Bira. The best of them now carry a dive centre, a chef and a crew of fifteen or more for a dozen guests.

Islands with a culture

Bali's temple calendar, the Abui villages of Alor, the nutmeg forts of Banda. A good voyage spends as much time ashore as under water.

LINGER LONGER "Indonesia rewards the second week. You spend the first one learning how big it is." — J. W.

OCTOBER – APRIL

The Raja Ampat season

Calmer water in the east, the reefs at their clearest, and the karst lagoons of Wayag and Misool at their best.

APRIL – NOVEMBER

Komodo & Bali, dry season

Dry hills, steady winds and good visibility in Komodo. Bali's driest months for temples, rice terraces and the cliffs.

Komodo's ridges are greenest just after the rains

The archipelago is big enough that it's always the right season somewhere. Tell me the month you can travel, and I'll tell you which sea.

– J. Wild

Who Indonesia by sea is for, and who it isn't

The short answer: anyone who loves the water, and nobody in a hurry. Here's how I'd match you, by the kind of traveler you are.

BEST FOR	IDEAL LENGTH	BEST TIME	HOW
Divers, sailors and anyone who likes their luxury barefoot	10 to 16 days: a week at sea, a few nights ashore	Raja Ampat Oct–Apr; Komodo and Bali Apr–Nov	Private phinisi charter, then villas on Bali

MADE FOR YOU IF YOU'RE…

First-timers

Bali first, then the dragons. You'll understand why people stay longer.

OUR PICK · THE CONTRAST · BALI, THEN KOMODO

Divers & snorkelers

Raja Ampat will spoil every other reef for you. Sorry in advance.

OUR PICK · ALIIKAI OR DUNIA BARU · RAJA AMPAT, OCT–APR

Families & three generations

One boat, one table, nobody's phone works. Bliss.

OUR PICK · DUNIA BARU · 14 GUESTS, THE WHOLE YACHT

Couples & honeymooners

Three cabins, a wooden deck and a sunset nobody else is watching.

OUR PICK · SI DATU BUA · 6 GUESTS

Wellness seekers

A river, rice terraces and someone who knows your name by day two.

OUR PICK · COMO SHAMBHALA ESTATE, UBUD

The culture-curious

Temple ceremonies in Ubud, the Abui on Alor, the spice forts of Banda.

OUR PICK · SILOLONA · THE SPICE ISLANDS

THINK TWICE IF YOU'RE…

Bad sailors

A phinisi rolls; it's part of her charm. Some nights you'll disagree.

OUR PICK · BALI VILLAS, THEN A SHORT KOMODO CRUISE IN CALM MONTHS

Nightlife hunters

Seminyak has it. The rest of Indonesia has better things to do.

OUR PICK · TWO NIGHTS AT HOTEL INDIGO SEMINYAK, THEN OUT

Anyone in a hurry

The flights alone take a day. Come for two weeks, or wait.

OUR PICK · STRETCH TO TWELVE NIGHTS

Limited mobility

Tender transfers, boarding ladders, steep village paths.

OUR PICK · BALI VILLAS AND A GENTLER ROUTE; TELL US AND WE'LL PLAN AROUND IT

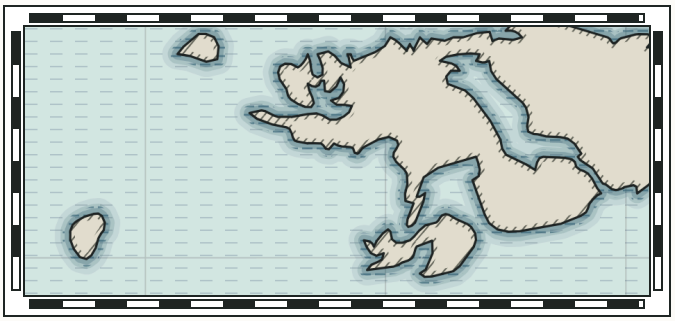

Signal addicts

Raja Ampat has more fish than phone signal.

OUR PICK · SATELLITE ON BOARD FOR EMERGENCIES; POST THE PHOTOS AT HOME

Slower is the whole point

Worth another night, at anchor

Most Indonesia regrets are about time, not money. People fly a very long way, see one sea, and spend the flight home wondering about the others. We'd rather you stayed.

That's why the house sets a seven-night minimum at sea, and why our offers reward staying longer rather than booking sooner.

Seven nights or don't bother. The first two you sleep off the flights. Then the reef starts talking.

Rules of the Road

01 Pick the sea before the ship. The month decides the water; the water decides everything.

02 The smaller the boat, the bigger the sea. Six to fourteen guests, never more.

03 Arrive the day before the day before. Domestic flights run late; yachts sail on the tide.

04 Land, then sea. Bali first, so the yacht is the reward.

Words we've struck out

~~PARADISE~~ — Overused, and paradise is usually crowded. These places aren't.

~~UNDISCOVERED~~ — The Bajau sea nomads and the Konjo boatbuilders got here centuries before us.

~~ONCE IN A LIFETIME~~ — Most of our guests come back for the next sea. Plan for twice.

What to know, and what not to expect

Getting there

Fly into Bali (Denpasar). Komodo is about an hour east to Labuan Bajo; Raja Ampat starts at Sorong, usually via Jakarta or Makassar. Arrive a day early.

Fees at the door

Bali's tourist levy, IDR 150,000 per foreign visitor. Indonesia's visa on arrival or e-visa `[confirm current fee]`. Raja Ampat marine park entry card and Komodo National Park fees `[confirm]`; most yachts arrange the permits.

Fitness

Tender transfers, boarding ladders and the odd steep lookout. Confident swimmers get the most from the reefs; dive courses can be arranged on board.

Pack

Reef-safe sunscreen, a rash vest, light long sleeves and a sarong for temples, water shoes, a dry bag, and your dive card if you have one.

What not to expect

~~CASINO~~	The only gamble is whether the mantas show up.
~~FORMAL NIGHTS~~	Dress code: barefoot by dinner.
~~ON-TIME FLIGHTS~~	Domestic schedules are suggestions. We build in a buffer.
~~CROWDED REEFS~~	Not where we take you.
~~STRONG WI-FI~~	Limited at sea `[confirm per yacht]`. Post the photos at home.

Straight answers

Do I need to dive? No. Most sites are as good with a mask and snorkel.

Sea or land first time? Land first. Then the yacht feels like a reward.

Children? Strong fit on Dunia Baru and Aliikai. Age guidance `[confirm per yacht]`.

Words you'll hear on board

Phinisi
The two-masted wooden schooner of South Sulawesi. Its boatbuilding craft is on UNESCO's Intangible Cultural Heritage list.

Konjo
The boatbuilding people of the Bira and Tana Beru coast, where most of these yachts were built by hand.

Coral Triangle
The ocean region between Indonesia, the Philippines and Papua New Guinea with the world's richest reefs.

Karst
Limestone worn into towers, mushrooms and lagoons. Wayag and Misool are karst country.

Tender
The small boat that takes you from yacht to shore or dive site. Every outing starts with one.

Subak
Bali's cooperative system for sharing water across the rice terraces, run through the temples.

Ranger walk
Every walk among the Komodo dragons is led by a park ranger carrying a forked stick. Stay close.
